YOUNG MURDER MYSTERY.

More Complications Growing Out of This Strange Case.

Mr. Joseph Bristow, bailiff in Room 2 of the Superior Court, and an uncle of Thomas Bristow, who was arrested for the murder of John Young and discharged by the grand jury last week says the statements of Constable Sorters, as published in Sunday morning's Journal, are not consistent with the facts. Mr. Bristow says that Moore and Bristow, who were charged with the murder, succeeded in proving an alibi by several farmers residing in Perry township, who testified before the grand jury that Bristow was at work for his father upon the latter's farm on the day Young was murdered. Mr. Bristow says Young was murdered. He also says that the mother of Moore did testify before the grand jury, but says he does not know what facts she testified to. Mr. Bristow says that a daughter of Moore's mother was before the grand jury and testified, and he presumes she testified to a state of facts similar to what she stated prior to her examination before the grand jury. Before the grand jury convened she said that she had been at the residence of her mother the day after the Young murder and saw her mother washing bloody clothes, but the blood was caused from wounds inflicted by the mother upon a younger son, who was at that time confiend to his bed on account of these injuries. This daughter also displayed a scar upon her head which she said had been caused by her mother striking her upon the head with the heel of a shoe while she was a small child. Mr. Bristow says he does not believe the statements made by Johnson in his con-fession of the crime. He also says that he believes the mother of Frank Moore is insane, and that her accusations against her son and Bristow are the outgrowth of an

Grand Encampment Considers a Report on Haughey's Acts.

Statement of the Committee-George Shirts, of Noblesville, Elected Grand Patriarch-Other Officers.

The Grand Encampment I. O. O. F. held its annual session at Odd Fellows' Hall yesterday. The chief interest centered in the report of Grand Patriarch John Cockrum, as he reported the finances of the order as affected by the suspension of the Indianapolis National Bank. That portion of his report pertaining to ex-Treasurer T. P. Haughey was in part as follows:

The unfortunate announcement of the suspension of the Indianapolis National Bank, of which Patriarch Theodore P. Haughey, grand treasurer of this grand body, was president, created widespread consternation throughout the city of In-dianapolis and throughout this grand juris-diction. This bank suspended July 25, 1893. At that time there was in the hands of Patriarch Haughey, belonging to this grand body, $5,531.85. This sum had been deposited in Patriarch Haughey's personal account in the Indianapolis National Bank, and at the time of the suspension was exhausted. On the 25th day of July, 1893, Patriarch Haughey conveyed to P. G. Rep. D. B. Shideler and James A. Wildman, as trustees for this grand body and for the Grand Lodge, the Odd Fellows' Mutual Aid Association and Odd Fellows' Home, a considerable quantity of real estate in the city siderable quantity of real estate in the city of Indianapolis, and also assigned certain securities, notes, etc., to be held by them in trust for the benefit of the different organizations named in the conveyance made. "On behalf of the Grand Encampment, I appointed Grand Reps. D. B. Shideler and James A. Wildman as trustees for the Grand Encampment, to accept and hold in trust such deeds, papers and mortgages and other sequentials." other securities as had been, or might thereafter be, delivered to them by Theo-dore P. Haughey, grand treasurer, for the purpose of indemnifying the Grand En-campment against loss on account of any and all moneys that the said Haughey might have in his hands belonging to said Grand Encampment. It became necessary, in the course of a few days, to accept from Patriarch Haughtarily, and placed in my hands Aug. 23, After Brother Haughey's resignation, on Aug. 23, I appointed Patriarch John Reynolds grand treasurer, who filed his bond with me, with P. H. Jameson and Henry Frank as his sureties, in the sum of $5,000, Aug. 25, 1893, which I approved and directed that he deposit the money belonging to this grand body in the Indiana National Bank, which he has done.

Many legal questions were from time to time arising and were likely to arise in connection with the suspension of the bank, of which Brother Haughey was president, and the absolute necessity arose for the retention of a legal representative of the order, so that on Aug. 23, 1893, I retained and appointed G. H. P. George Shirts as attorney for this grand encampment to look after its interest. At the same time look after its interest. At the same time I appointed as a committee to investigate the condition of the accounts of the order, P. G. R. James A. Wildman, John F. Wallick and A. C. Daily.

which resignation was made by him volun-

The report of this committee has been placed in my hands, and reads in part as follows, which I submit herewith for such action as this grand body may see fit: "We have taken the reports made at the last November session of the Grand Encampment as a basis for our examination and do not extend the investigation beyond that period, and bring the same down to and including July 27, 1893. The books and accounts of the grand secretary are found to be correct.

At the November session, 1892, the report of the late grand treasurer, T. P. Haughey, showed a balance on hand due the Grand Encampment of......$5,474.17 Received since November session, 1892, to July 27, 1893...... 2,768.74

Making a total of.......$8,242.91 Warrants have been paid by the late grand treasurer from Novem-"The books of the Indianapolis National Bank do not show that the Grand Encampment had an account in the bank. We, therefore, conclude that the same must have been with the personal account of T. P. Haughey, who was president of the bank at the time of its failure.

"On the 25th day of July, 1893, T. P. Haughey executed a deed of assignment and constituted D. B. Shideler and James A. Wildman, trustees, to hold in trust certain mortgage notes and warranty deeds belonging to his personal estate, the proceeds of which are to be applied to his indebtedness to the Grand Lodge, Grand Lodge Hall, Grand Encampment, Odd Fellows' Home and Odd Fellows' Mutual Aid "Three notes for $300 each, dated April 1, 1891, due in four, five and six years, $900; one note for $400, dated April 1, 1891, due in "The above and within described notes, amounting to $6,850, bear 6 per cent. interest from date. Nine notes for $1,200, dated May 27, 1890, $10,800, due in four, five, six, seven, eight, nine, ten, eleven and twelve years, respectively. One note for $600, dated May 27, 1830, due in twelve years and six months. These notes, amounting to $11,400, are without interest. Also, one tontine Savings Fund Assurance policy, No. 227,100, issued by the Equitable Life Assurance Society of the United States, for $10,000 on the life of Hannah C. Haughey, payable to T. P. Haughey, and assigned by her to her husband. Also, lots 13 and 14, in Isaac Coe's subdivision of square six (6), in the city of Indianapolis, being No. 264 on North Illinois street, valued at $15,000. Also, lot No. 55, in Columbia place. This lot is especially designated and set forth in the deed of conveyance for the location of the Odd

The house and lot on Illinois street we estimated at the price for which the same has been sold within the last three years." In my judgment the assets in the hands of the trustees, D. B. Shideler and James A. Wildman should be taken in charge by a joint committee of the Grand Lodge, Grand Encampment, Odd Fellows' Home and Odd Fellows' Mutual Aid Association and an equitable division of the same made. therefore recommend that Patriarch W H. Leedy be appointed as a representative of this Grand Encampment to act in conjunction with the representatives of other bodies interested in arriving at an equitable and just division of the assets included in the assignment made by Patriarch Haughey to the trustees aforementioned. I am of the epinion that the grand treasurer should be directed by this grand body where to deposit the funds of the order in his hands. The Indiana National Bank is as sound a financial institution as there is in the State. I recommend that it be declared to be the depository of the order, and that the grand treasurer be directed to deposit the moneys of the order therein. The experience with Haughey led the encampment to consider the advisability of very material changes in the laws and they were altered so as to be, in effect, an entire new set of laws. The bond of the treasurer was increased and the number of bondsmen required increased to three. The trustees were empowered to proceed to collect the securities turned over to them by Haughey. The feeling of the membership, generally, towards the ex-treasure? is one of charity, and there were numerous expressions of sympathy for him by members who persisted in the belief that Haughey was not intentionally dishonest. Officers were elected as follows: Grand Patriarch-George Shirts, of Noblesville.

ADDED TO THE BIDS

The 10 Per Cent. Reserve on City Contracts as Guarantees.

A Contractor Makes a Statement Regarding These Matters-A New Custodian for Garfield Park.

A well-known contractor, who has a number of important contracts with the city in street improvements, made the statement, yesterday, that the city contractors have been in the habit of adding the amounts which the city deducts from their contracts for a guarantee fund to the bids which they submit. The amount of money due a contractor on a public improvement is not all paid over to him when the contract is completed, but, instead, a certain per cent. of the amount is held in order to guarantee the city for the time for which the improvement is warranted. This amount is about 10 per cent. of the total amount involved in the contract, and if no fault is found with the improvement at the end of the time for which it is guaranteed, the ten-per-cent. reserve is paid the contractor. That is, Indianapolis pays the contractors 10 per cent. more than she ought to pay for the sake of holding this guarantee of 10 per cent.

"You cannot blame the local contractors for this," said the contractor who made the statement. "It takes a great deal of money to make an improvement, and the contractor has to wait a considerable time for his money, oftentimes having to pay a big rate of interest to the banks for accommodations. The bulk of the payment is made us in Barrett bonds, and we have to hold these bonds or shave them. There are mighty few contractors in the city who have enough morrey to carry an improvement until the city is ready to pay. I think every contractor adds this 10 per cent. to his bid, and, of course, he is just that much better off when the three or five years roll around. It would be to the advantage of the city if she compelled the contractors to give a good, solid bond instead of holding this reserve.

CUSTODIAN YUNGE RELEASED. Robert McKeand to Succeed Him as

Custodian of Garfield Park. Robert McKeand was yesterday appointed custodian of Garfield Park, the appointment to take effect Dec. 1. The appointment created some little surprise, as there was an impression that the board was satisfied that custodian Yunge was a competent man. The Florist Club indorsed McKeand, or at least twenty members of the club signed the petition, which states that McKeand is a professional florist and landscape gar-dener. The petition also says that the eyes of Washington and other florists are turned towards Indianapolis. The salary of the custodian is $60 a month, with house rent

He Took Herrick's Pie.

A bold thief, not having the fear of the police department in his eye, dared to invade the sacred precints of the Board of Safety office a day ago while the board was in session. He mistook one of the drawers near the inquiry window for a cash drawer. Opening it he found a valuable mince ple which Clerk Herrick had stored away for the noon hour. He took the pie, also a hat belonging to City Clerk Nixon and a bottle of machine oil. The thief is respectfully invited to bring back the ple and retain the Councilman Rauh's Seat. One or two Democratic members of the Council have raised the question of Councilman Rauh's eligibility to hold office. It is claimed that he is interested in the Sellers farm contract with the city, and that the charter forbids any city officer from having a contract with the city. Mr. S. E. Rauh, a brother of the councilman, says that the councilman has transferred all his business, as far as it relates to the city's contract, to him.

AMUSEMENTS.

Grand-Felix Morris. In the teeth of inclement weather last night, another appreciative audience went to spend an enjoyable evening with Felix Morris and his company of clever comedians. In addition to a repetition of "The Old Musician" and rollicking "Cousin Joe." the company gave a new two-act farce comedy, teeming with laughable misunderstandings, entitled "Moses." The entire company of ten people is required in its production, and there is not a dull part in the whole cast. Mr. Morris and Miss Stuart, two superior performers, are not provided with parts that bedim the capable people in the cast, and hence his little gem, taken from the German by Minnie Maddern Fiske, is well balanced throughout. Morris, as the Jew peddler, Moses, was hardly the ideal crafty Hebrew, his voice at times having a tendency to drop into the well-known mannerisms of inflection that are more perfectly suited to "The Old Musician." Miss Stuart has a chance to display the sweet and fetching singing qualities of a really exceptional voice with which nature has blessed her, and, as in "Cousin Joe," she was called for an encore. She also conducted a positively killing interview with her father, Mr. Sadier (Frank B. Hatch), at the close of which she was called back to acknowledge a tumult of applause. This was Mr. Hatch's first appearance during the engagement, and he made a strong impression. Mrs. Anna Cowell, as Mrs. Goodman, the innocent victim of a host of maddening circumstances, showed that she is in her element as an impersonator of elderly women's parts. Miss Jean Coye, as Sarah, daughter of Moses, is refreshingly naive, and bears out the time-worn aphorism that a blonde Jew-ess is "heavenly fair." W. J. Constanting and Arthur Byron are two very capable actors, and take the parts of Goodman, pere et fils, in a highly satisfactory manner. Kendall Weston does the gushing lover in an acceptable fashion.

Amusement Notes. Mr. Felix Morris will make his last appearance at the Grand Opera House tonight (there being no matinee.) He will present three short pieces, two of which are entirely new to this city. One is "The Rose," by Minnie Maddern Fiske, a beautiful one-act sketch, full of light and shade, and the other is "The Vagabond," a strong character part in which Mr. Morris excels. "Cousin Joe" will fill out the bill. The Carleton Opera Company is giving excellent performances of comic opera at popular prices, at English's. "Nanon" will be given for the last time, at the matinee to-day. To-night and Friday evening, "Chimes of Normandy" will be presented, with Mr. Carleton as the Marquis, "Bohemian Girl" will be given to-morrow night and Saturday matinee, and the "Mikado" Saturday night.

The Rentz-Santley company is meeting with much success at the Empire this week. The burlesque, "America, or the Discovery of Columbus," is one of the most gorgeous burlesques ever presented at the Empire. Waldmann's Specialty Company will make its first appearance in this city, at the Empire, next Monday. The specialists are among the leaders in the profes-sion and are headed by the famous Eddy offered a treat in fine singing on the appearance of the well-known "lady barltone," Miss Helena Mora.

The Daughters of the King and Brotherhood of St. Andrew, of Grace Cathedral, will give an entertainment Thursday night, Nov. 23, in the guild room, at 8 o'clock. The 'Dream of Fair Women" and other tableaux will be given. Admission 15 cents.

MEN WHO WANT WORK

They Are Registering at the Commercial Club's Bureau.

Contractor Griffin Promises to Employ Home Labor-A Philanthropic Miller's Offer-A Widow's Story.

The bureau of labor in the basement of the Commercial Club was visited by several hundred applicants yesterday. Many of those who filled out the blanks were mechanics and machinists. Some of the men after they had filed their applications stood about as if waiting for immediate assistance, and when told that there was nothing in view at present walked out with disappointment and despondency pictured upon their features. One woman called yesterday afternoon, a widow apparently about thirty years of age. She came in with hesitating steps, and with some embarrassment asked for a blank. She said that she had one child, a little daughter five years of age, who was dependent upon the mother's efforts as a seamstress. For some years she has been working at the occupation of dressmaking, but for the past month or two has had no work. She has a home, but her scanty stores are dwindling rapidly, and the little woman, with a piteous sob, explained that unless she secured something very soon she would be compelled to abandon her home and perhaps place her child at the mercy of a charitable

The relief committee of the Commercial Club yesterday afternoon met Contractor Griffin, of the East Washington-street sewer work. The latter stated that he would push the contract as rapidly as possible, and assured the committee that, aside from a new foreman, he would import no labor to Indianapolis. He proposes to secure all his men through the employment agency now being operated by the club. The same large crowd of idle men remained at the rooms of the Carpenters' Union all day yesterday. The committee from the unemployed workmen laneu to hold their regular meeting yesterday morning. During the day, Mrs. George, who is conducting a philanthropic work at the Little Hotel, sent the following letter to the committee, which she had received vesterday morning: "I thought I would ask you if you haven't got some work that you would let me have for food. I can do anything, any kind of work, and I don't care what it is. I have four little children to feed. Please let me work for God's sake. The address of the distressed writer was given as No. 173 East Louisiana street, and the committee on investigation found that the husband of the woman had a few days ago been released from the City Hospital, and was too weak to sit up. For weeks the family has existed upon decayed potatoes picked up by the children from the rear of the produce establishments.

Two Local Philanthropists. Chairman Tuttle, of the unemployed's committee, yesterday visited North Indianapolis and ascertained that considerable building is to be carried on in the suburb during the coming winter. One contractor whom he met stated that he intended employing country mechanics because he believed that he could secure them cheap. He was informed that an application to the committee would secure him an abundance of help at reasonable wages. The contractor promised to employ workmen from this city. Another philanthropic offer has been made to the committee by the unsnown milling firm which tendered assistance last week. The firm offers to furnish twenty barrels of flour at $3.75 per barrel, taking as payment the personal note of the recipient. Yesterday Albert Hitzelberger offered to execute his note for worth of flour, and will furnish two or three half-pint bottles of pure grape wine to be distributed among the sick and weak.

Retail Clerks' Fund. At the meeting of the Retail Clerks' Union last night the question of affording relief to the unemployed of the city was discused, and the union raised a fund of $10 to assist in giving relief to the needy. The question of organizing a regular association in the union for the purpose of affording relief was not discussed on account of the small number of members attending last night, but will probably be brought up later. The fund raised last night will be turned over to the relief committee to aid them in their ATTACKED BY BRUTES.

Mrs. John Hardy Assailed in Her Own Home.

Mrs. John Hardy, residing at No. 264 East Georgia street, was the victim of a malicious assault last Sunday night by which she suffered a double fracture of the arm. Her husband is employed as a night driver by the Bird transfer line, and while absent from his home the house was invaded by two drunken fellows, roughly dressed and bent on mischief. Mrs. Hardy was alone, and the men demanded her pocketbook which lay on a table. She grabbed the purse and attempted to hide it, when one of the men picked up a washbowl and threw the vessel at the woman with all the force he could command. The bowl struck her left arm with force enough to. break the arm. Although suffering intensely she did not discover the extent of her injuries until yesterday, when Dr. Gregg was called to examine her.

The Neal-Lackey Case Dismissed. The case of Dr. Neal vs. Lackey, the Cambridge City horse breeder, on trial in the United States Court, was dismissed yesterday at the plaintiff's cost.
